BACKGROUND

People used languages to communicate with others, either spoken or written. We can also express it by using gesture or body movement, action, signal, and sound. People used languages to understand the meaning of the utterance. By understanding the meaning of the utterance that produced by speakers and has the knowledge to used the language, they acquired in order to communicate. Talking is the most common thing in the form of communication.

Based on Grice theory, when making a conversation we should obey the conversational maxims. There are four conversational maxim; maxim of quantity, maxim of quality, maxim of relation, and maxim of manner. In this research, the writer chooses Hillary Clinton as the subject of the research..The writer want to analyze the violation of maxim generated to conversational implicature using cooperative principle theoris from Grice to prove that Hillary Clinton in doing conversation often violating maxim which generate conversational implicature.

FRAMEWORK OF THEORIES:

Cooperative
principle theory:

Maxim of quantity
violating

Maxim of quality
violating

Maxim of relevance

LISTENING

Your scaled score is below 200. Test takers who score below 200 may have some of the same strengths as test takers who score around 200, but their performance is likely to be less consistent. Test takers who score around 200 typically have the following strengths:

- They can understand short (single-sentence) descriptions of the central idea of a photograph.
- They can sometimes understand the central idea, purpose, and basic content of extended spoken texts when the information is supported by a lot of repetition and easy vocabulary.
- They can understand details in short spoken exchanges and descriptions of photographs when the vocabulary is easy and when there is only a small amount of text that must be understood.
- They can understand details in extended spoken texts when the requested information comes at the beginning or end of the text and when it matches the words in the spoken text.

To see weaknesses typical of test takers who score around 200, see the *Proficiency Description Table.

READING

Your scaled score is below 150. Test takers who score below 150 may have some of the same strengths as test takers who score around 150, but their performance is likely to be less consistent. Test takers who score around 150 typically have the following strengths:

- They can locate the correct answer to a factual question when not very much reading is necessary and when the language of the text matches the information that is required.
- They can understand easy vocabulary and common phrases.
- They can understand the most common, rule-based grammatical structures when not very much reading is necessary.

To see weaknesses typical of test takers who score around 150, see the *Proficiency Description Table.

Biography of Kara Swisher

Kara Swisher is the executive editor of Recode, host of the Recode Decode podcast and co-executive producer of the Code Conference. Swisher co-founded former Recode and Code owner Revere Digital and, before that, co-produced and co-hosted The Wall Street Journal's "D: All Things Digital," with Walt Mossberg. It was the major high-tech conference with interviewees such as Bill Gates, Steve Jobs and many other leading players in the tech and media industries. The gathering was considered one of the leading conferences focused on the convergence of tech and media industries. Swisher worked in The Wall Street Journal's San Francisco bureau. For many years, she wrote the column, "BoomTown," which appeared on the front page of the Marketplace section and also on The Wall Street Journal Online at WSJ.com. Previously, Swisher covered breaking news about the Web's major players and Internet policy issues and also wrote feature articles on technology for the paper. She has also written a weekly column for the Personal Journal on home issues called "Home Economics."

Previously, Swisher worked as a reporter at the Washington Post and as an editor at the City Paper of Washington, D.C. She received her undergraduate degree from Georgetown University's School of Foreign Service and her graduate degree at Columbia University's School of Journalism.

Swisher is also the author of "aol.com: How Steve Case Beat Bill Gates, Nailed the Netheads and Made Millions in the War for the Web," published by Times Business Books in July 1998. The sequel, "There Must Be a Pony in Here Somewhere: The AOL Time Warner Debacle and the Quest for a Digital Future," was published in the fall of 2003 by Crown Business Books.

Biography of Hillary Clinton

Hillary Diane Rodham Clinton (née Rodham; born October 26, 1947) is an American politician, diplomat, lawyer, writer, and public speaker. She was First Lady of the United States from 1993 to 2001, a United States senator from New York from 2001 to 2009, and the 67th United States secretary of state from 2009 to 2013. Clinton was the Democratic Party nominee for president of the United States in the 2016 election. Clinton is the first woman to receive the presidential nomination of a major U.S. political party.

As First Lady of the United States, Clinton advocated for gender equality and healthcare reform. Her marital relationship came under public scrutiny during the Lewinsky scandal, which led her to issue a statement that reaffirmed her commitment to the marriage. In 2000, Clinton was elected as the first female senator from New York. She was reelected to the Senate in 2006. Running for president in 2008, she won far more delegates than any previous female candidate, but lost the Democratic nomination to Barack Obama. During her tenure as U.S. secretary of state in the Obama administration from 2009 to 2013, Clinton responded to the Arab Spring by advocating military intervention in Libya.

Clinton made a second presidential run in 2016. She received the most votes and primary delegates in the 2016 Democratic primaries and formally accepted her party's nomination for president of the United States on July 28, 2016, with vice presidential running mate senator from Virginia Tim Kaine. She lost the presidential election to Republican opponent Donald Trump in the Electoral College despite winning a plurality of the popular vote. She received more than 65 million votes, the third-highest amount of votes ever received in a U.S. presidential election.
